The PENNSYLVANIA

G A Z E T T E.

Containing the Freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestic.

The following Articles were designed for our last Week's Paper; but, in order to make Room for later Advices by Captain Marquis, obliged to be deferred till now.

KAMINOI OSTROFF, July 23.

WE have these two days past had storms of thunder and Lightning so violent, that many persons here, who have been in the East and West-Indies, assure us they have never seen the like.

Yesterday the lightning struck upon the Galeren Haven, and occasioned three fires, by which twenty-six galleys were entirely consumed, and a magazine of pitch, masts, and cordage, belonging to the galleys, was burnt.

Vienna, August 3. The troops which are cantoned in Hungary, to the number of upwards of 100,000 men, are very troublesome to the Nobility with respect to their privileges. The Court seems to be taking measures by degrees to relieve the people of that Country from the slavery and oppression which they suffer from the Nobility.

Poland, August 10. Colonel Drewitz has made himself master of the Fort of Bobreck, which the Confederates had fortified. They had put a Garrison in it of 180 men; but these, finding themselves reduced to 80, capitulated.

Brussels, August 20. In the memory of man never was such weather known as was here had in this country for these last three weeks. Not many weeks ago we had the greatest appearance of plenty; but at present, from the continual and excessive rains that have fallen, and still continue, we have a most melancholy prospect before us; and indeed, if this bad weather continues but a very little longer, we have every thing to dread. Prayers are offered up in all the churches for fair weather, and this day the processions will begin.

Copenhagen (Denmark) August 4. Although his Catholic Majesty has forbidden all foreign ships of war to enter his ports, he has, however, excepted from this prohibition our ships of war, so long as our hostilities against the Algerines continue; so that three Danish ships may at a time enter the ports of Spain.

Bezancon (the Capital of Franche Compté) August 5. Yesterday at 5 o'clock in the morning, Mr. de Grosbois, first President of the Parliament, received orders from the King, which banish him to his seat at Grosbois. In the evening the Duke de Randon arrived here, preceded by 15 of the Marechaux, with Mr. Bassard, Counsellor of State. This morning at 4 o'clock, all the Members of Parliament received Lettres de Cachet, enjoining them to go to the palace at 8 o'clock, to hear the King's orders; and when they went, Mr. Bassard read an edict for suppressing the Parliament. Some of the members desired leave to deliberate, but they were forbid so to do; and in the afternoon fresh Lettres de Cachet arrived, which exiled 35 of the members to different places. There are 30 or 25 who are not exiled, who, it is thought, will compose a new Parliament.

Each company of foot, both of national and foreign troops, is reduced from 63 men to 50. By this scheme about 24,000 men are discharged. The reduction of the cavalry is to take place next, and as that corps is more expensive than the infantry, it is thought the reduction will be greater. The marine is likewise to be considerably reduced.

L O N D O N.

August 16. Mr. Edmund Burke is preparing for the press this ensuing winter, a political pamphlet, under the inspection of the Marquis of Rockingham; the subject of which, we hear, is, "A Plan for the Coalition of Parties."

The true friends of our excellent constitution are alarmed at every report of a coalition of parties, as they apprehend such a coalition would strike at the vitals of our freedom.

August 21. Among the changes expected in the higher departments of the law, it is looked upon as certain, that Sir Fletcher Norton will be promoted to a very important office.

The Leaders of the Opposition have had several conferences, within these few days, on the subject of a new mode of proceeding for redress of grievances.

Extract of a letter from Christianland, July 25.

"This country seems at present to be threatened with a famine, from the dependance which it always has upon other countries, in being supplied with corn, and there is now hardly any from those countries to be got at any price."

The sailors below bridge are so afraid of press-warrants, that many of them have deserted from the merchant service, in order to get work on shore.

Two houses were opened last week at Wapping for volunteers for his Majesty's service.

August 23. Junius, in his last letter to Mr. Horne, has taken upon him to say, that there is no necessity for binding Lord Chatbam down by the formality of a written instrument to the great cause of the people, since that noble Statesman has publicly declared himself a convert to triennial Parliaments in the House of Peers; but the people look for more than the re-establishment of triennial elections from those who apply for their confidence. They look for the removal of every real grievance by which the subject is oppressed, and do not, by any means, bend their eye to a single object of redress; they expect the total repeal of the Game-Acts, the total repeal of the Marriage-Act, and a total annihilation of Pensioners as well as Placemen, though some of the most popular characters of the present hour should even swell the catalogue of the former, and thoughtfully contradict, by their practice, the whole profession of their lives.

It is remarked, that when Junius wrote a short letter to Mr. Horne, his Reverend Correspondent answered him by a letter of four columns; and when Junius replied with a letter as long as a Sermon, the Parson answered him with a letter as short as a Court or City grace.

August 24. Letters from Copenhagen mention, that the King of Denmark has just published a Proclamation, requiring all persons, who have been used to the sea, and are out of his Dominions, and in foreign service, to return home by the 22d of January next, on pain of suffering perpetual imprisonment, whenever they are taken within his Majesty's Kingdom.

We hear that the French Ambassador at Constantinople has written a Remonstrance to Count Orloff, the Russian Generalissimo, wherein he complains of the injustice done the King his Master, by that Commander's suffering his ships to seize things belonging to France; the Count has sent for answer, that he thinks himself sufficiently justified in that act by the law of nations, as there were found on board his vessels a vast quantity of flints for guns, &c. which were intended for the use of the enemies of her Imperial Majesty.

His Ministry were ever more embarrassed than the present. Notwithstanding the apparent show of tranquillity, they are in the utmost confusion. They are determined however, if possible, to keep their ground: For this purpose they are endeavouring to effect a coalition. Hence have arisen the messages to the Duke of R. and Lord S. and several other chiefs of the Minority. Should their offers be rejected, we may expect warm work in the ensuing session of Parliament; and as their opponents daily gather strength, there is little doubt but the spirit of each party will be exerted to its utmost stretch: At the same time there is great reason to believe the Minority will be a pretty equal match for these Supporters of Despotism, who, like Iago, having entered into the cause so far, they must go on.

A letter from Berlin, received by the last mail, says, that some great stroke is certainly in agitation; for that two expresses have been sent to Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick; and that his Serene Highness is hourly expected to arrive there in consequence thereof. It is also rumoured at Berlin, that Prince Ferdinand is to accompany his Prussian Majesty to an interview with the Emperor the beginning of September.

They write from Cadix, that several transports laden with ship timber, cut down in the neighbourhood of St. Sebastian, were carried there for the use of the Royal dock-yards.

A Spanish fleet, consisting of eight ships of the line, and four frigates, are now cruising in the Mediterranean.

Letters from Spain say, that recruits are raising throughout the kingdom, in order to form some new regiments.

By private intelligence from Paris we learn, that the Irish brigades in the French service have received orders to hold themselves in readiness to march at the shortest notice.

It is said that General Paoli is in daily expectation of an invitation from Corsica, in order once more to head his countrymen against the French.

The Emperor has formed his camp at Pest.

A corps of 10,000 men are ordered to cover the Emperor's camp at Pest, whilst a body of 35,000 men are to be sent to the frontiers of Hungary, and another body of 20,000 into Transylvania.

A new treaty of alliance is now on the carpet between the Courts of London, St. Petersburg, Copenhagen, and Stockholm.

A bill is preparing to be brought into Parliament the ensuing session, for establishing a regular national militia in Scotland.

The Ottoman fleet, under the command of the Captain Pachá, has received a reinforcement of 5000 Albanian seamen: The fleet is now very considerable, and is well stored, and is manned with at least 10,000 sailors.

Letters from Bohemia say, that the harvest throughout that country is entirely spoiled, and the inhabitants have no other prospect but certain famine.

Extract of a letter from the Hague, August 16.

"According to the letters from Warsaw, Mr. de Saldern, Ambassador from Russia to the King and Republic of Poland, having discovered some private intrigues that were carrying on by the Primate of that kingdom, very detrimental to the interest of his Sovereign, and likewise of his Polish Majesty, sent an express privately to Petersburg to inform his Court of the affair, and desire instructions how to act in the present situation of things; which seem likely to prove fatal to that Prince, who was already a prisoner of state. In the mean time Mr. de Saldern has sent a detachment of 30 Cossacks to guard the Prince Primate, under a pretence of doing him honour, and protecting him from the insults of the Confederates; and this detachment is ordered to watch him very narrowly, to prevent his making his escape."

Letters from Italy contain some very bold insinuations with respect to the Court of Sardinia, which we do not think prudent to communicate to the public till they are better authenticated."

Warsaw, Aug. 19. Our apprehensions of the re-appearance of the plague in Podolia and Volhynia begin to subside; the letters received from those provinces this week bringing accounts, that the precautions immediately taken by the directors of the villages (where it broke out first, through the covetousness of some people digging up and using the effects which had belonged to those who had fallen victims to the distemper, and which had been buried to stop the infection) have prevented it spreading; and that not more than 100 persons have been carried off by it.

L O N D O N.

Aug. 27. Friday last an old woman, and a girl, from Liverpool, were examined at the Secretary of State's office in Cleveland Row, by Sir John Fielding, and the Earls of Rochford and Suffolk, touching the great fire at Portsmouth. The Bloomsbury Gang laugh at this Business; and say, that the Court of Examination consists of a Magistrate without eyes, a Secretary with one eye, (Lord Rochford) and another without a head (Lord Suffolk.)

France is said to have built since the peace, 76 capital ships of war, besides Frigates, in the ports of that kingdom; and Spain has increased her navy in proportion.

August 31. Yesterday one Britain, confined in Reading Goal on the information of Mr. Dudley, sent a letter to a Great Person in the ministry, defying him, it is said, to bring him to justice; and saying, he does not in the least deny his being concerned in setting fire to Portsmouth Dock-Yard, but he did it through want of bread; and that several persons were concerned in it, whose influence will be sufficient to prevent any enquiry.

The above Britain appears to be a very sensible man, and a scholar; was, many years since, a Dragoon in his Majesty's service, and lately (as we are informed) an officer ----, but by various turns of fortune was reduced so low, that he was starving for want of the common necessities of life, when he was hired to commit the above atrocious crime: He is visited by great numbers of gentlemen and ladies in the prison, says that he has been promised any money he wants, on condition of his observing an inviolable secrecy, which he refused; he has wrote to two noble Lords in the ----, a copy of one of which letters follows hereafter.

Copy of a LETTER to a person in the City.

"Mr. ----,
Reading, Aug. 28, 1771.
I have sent you the true copy of a letter I sent to Lord ---- by Yesterday's post. I hope you have courage enough to publish it, and then the world will see what a wretched set of men composes the present administration. Sir, they dare not bring me to a trial. I know too much of their wickedness. I have dared the Earl of ----, about ten days ago, in as sharp a letter as this. All the answer I received was a letter from an agent, either of theirs or of the French, offering to bail me out of prison, provided I would quit the kingdom, and go to France.

Publish the letter literally, and sign Britain at the bottom.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

J. BRITAIN."

Copy of a Letter sent to Lord ----, dated the 27th of August, 1771.

"My Lord,

"I am not ---- surprised, that you should do all that lies in your power to bury in oblivion the late fire at Portsmouth-Dock. In all debates wherein the honour of the British nation is really concerned, we always see L--d ----'s name prefixed to the contrary side of the question, consequently we must expect the same, when the affair will expose your Lordship's conduct; wherein will be proved your receiving large sums of money at different times for your secret services.---Perhaps you say, 'what credit can be given to the evidence of a villain, who would be such a Traitor to his King and Country?' But hold, my Lord, your crimes are more heinous than mine.---What money I received was a bare subsistence.---Your's, my Lord, to indulge luxury.---I was in a mean capacity, a menial servant only.---You, my Lord, in a high office, intrusted with the rights and privileges of the people of England.---Besides, my Lord, I have another advantage over you. I am the penitent publican, while you continue the hardened pharisee.---

"Do not let the above displease your Lordship, as I send it to give you an opportunity to vindicate your conduct, and bring the people concerned in that affair (i. e. Portsmouth Fire) to a trial, which I believe your Lordship dare not do. If my evidence is not sufficient to prove all the charges I have made, I will suffer as the principal. Though, my Lord, you must not alter the law of the land; those tricks must be left off. I am,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble servant,

BRITAIN."

N. B. Any Gentlemen of distinction may have a sight of the original letters; in which the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, are written at full length.

We hear that the Count de Guignes, previous to his departure, sent a very polite letter to the Earl of Suffolk at his office, informing him thereof, with many polite excuses for his not taking leave of his Majesty, in the usual way, but that he should return again in a short time.

This day stocks fell considerably, owing to some important intelligence relative to the late Fire at Portsmouth, and, it is expected, they will fall 10 per cent. by Monday or Tuesday next.

We are credibly informed that the Spanish court have offered the French a present of 2,000,000 of livres, besides the loan of 3,000,000, for ten of her third rate ships of war.

The Dutch have now building on the stocks at Haerlem, Flushing and Amsterdam, above twenty ships of the line, four of which of 74 guns each, are nearly finished at the latter port.

It was confidently reported on Tuesday, that the late famine in the East-Indies was an artificial one, and caused by some people, who were called before a British Court of Justice, to answer for the same. These matters have been blown by a quarrel among the servants.

It may be depended on that a secret treaty is now negotiating between the Courts of Versailles, Madrid, and the States-General.

It is settled, we hear, beyond a doubt, that the Earl of Chatham comes into the ministry in about 8 or 9 weeks at farthest.

We are assured that the East India trade, which formerly carried a million sterling in specie from this kingdom annually, now brings us in near three, and is the great means which has prevented our bankruptcy as a people.

Lord Chatham, we hear, is exceedingly displeased at those paragraphs in the public prints, which insinuate even the possibility of his entering into any accommodation with the present Ministry.

All proper means are taking to put the Royal Navy on a respectable footing.

There are more ships of war at present in commission at Portsmouth, than were fit for service in all our ports put together at the opening of the last Parliament.

Sept. 2. The East India Company, we are informed, have received very agreeable accounts relating to the situation of affairs at Bengal; and that a powerful Subah, who has hitherto been strongly attached to the enemies of the English, has given several proofs of a favourable disposition towards the Company's servants.

The Argyle, a ship of 250 tons, laden for the East Indies with several stands of fire arms, lead, copper, &c. for the use of the Captain of the Duke of Portland Indiaman, has been seized by the Portuguese at the Brasils as a Pirate, and the Captain and crew imprisoned.

Notwithstanding the complaint letter sent by the French Ambassador to the Secretaries of State, with reasons assigned for his sudden departure without taking leave, we are informed the same is far from being satisfactory, and that there is something mysterious in the affair, which at present they cannot discover.

A private letter from Madrid mentions, that his Catholic Majesty had just made several military promotions in the army, that his Majesty had also ordered the expenses of his household to be greatly diminished; it is further added, that they continued sending from the ports in that kingdom troops and warlike stores to their American settlements.

Sept. 3. We are assured, that the true Cause of the Count de Guignes's very hasty Departure from this Kingdom was, that he had received certain Information from his Court, that a Discovery would inevitably be soon made of the Court's being privy to, and concerned in, the late Conflagration in Portsmouth Dock-yard, when his personal Safety would be endangered, as in such Case his Privilege as Ambassador, by the Law of Nations, would not protect him.

The Earl of Chesterfield, we hear, had an Audience upon national Affairs with a Great Personage privately at Richmond in the Course of last Week, the Result of which is impatiently expected by the public.

The following is said to be a true State of the Affairs of the East-India Company at home, chiefly taken from an Estimate lately made up to next Month; by this it appears, that, after the Company have paid off every Debt which is due, there will be a Balance in the Treasury of 220,000l. That there are in their Warehouses Goods unsold, which came by the Ships of last Year, to the Value of 1,500,000l. The Cargoes of the 13 Ships which have arrived this Year, may be estimated to near 2,300,000l, and there are 11 Ships, which are daily expected; the Cargoes of which may be computed at 1,500,000l. which seems together to amount to 5,500,000l. In this general State no Notice is taken of the Value of the Cargoes of the 37 Ships which failed last Season, and not yet all arrived in India, nor of the Goods which are already provided in India and China, for lading them for their homeward Voyages.

We hear that a very rich Widow Lady has fallen in Love with General Paoli, and that it will be his Fault if Matrimony is not the Consequence.

It may be depended on, that the Ministry have hitherto used every means in their power to prevent a discovery of the authors of the late fire at Portsmouth Dock-yard, fearing that on such discovery they must resent the conduct of our good friends the French; when they would be no longer able to keep their places, but must make room for those who have the confidence of the people, as such Ministers only can raise the proper supplies to carry on a war with vigour. L--d S-----k lately in public threw out an insinuation that Dudley, now in confinement, had no concern in the conflagration; but that he was employed by the Lord Mayor and Mr. Wilkes to propagate such report, in order to raise a disturbance in the kingdom. Whether any faith is to be placed in the declaration of the protesting L--d, the public will determine.

Sept. 5. The pretensions of Dudley and Britain, to discover the author of the fire at Portsmouth, says a correspondent, requires the strictest examination; as they are probably the mere invention of those persons, in order to impose upon and mislead the credulous; a practice that was attended with terrible consequences to many worthy characters in that infamous era of pretended plots, the reign of Charles the Second.

The fortifications of Portsmouth are now to be greatly extended; and all that detached part of the town, distinguished by the name of the Common, is to be taken immediately within the interior intrenchments. With respect to the dock-yard, our readers may be assured, that the strictest circumspection is maintained in regard to the admission of visitants. A printed regulation is pasted up, setting forth the conditions of entrance, and the smallest negligence in the watchmen, would be punished by an instant discharge from the service.

Sept. 7. In general there is a very great prospect of a fine harvest. In the west of England in particular, there has not been such an appearance of plenty in all sorts of grain these 20 years. But it is very remarkable that, through the backwardness of the spring, the latter sowing, of about a month after Christmas (occasioned by very favourable weather immediately succeeding) is nearly, and in some places full as forward as the grain which was sowed at Michaelmas preceding.

PHILADELPHIA, October 31.
To the Honourable RICHARD PENN, Esq; Lieutenant Governor, and Commander in Chief, of the Province of Pennsylvania, and Counties of New-Castle, Kent and Suffex, on Delaware, The ADDRESS of the Mayor and Commonalty of the City of Philadelphia.

May it please your HONOUR,
We, the Mayor and Commonalty of the City of Philadelphia, beg Leave to congratulate your Honour on your safe Arrival, and Accession to the Government of this Province.

We assure you, Sir, that it is with singular Pleasure we behold that great Trust again committed to a Descendant of our first worthy Proprietor and Governor.

From your Honour's well known Character, and your Knowledge of the Laws and Constitution, we have the fullest Assurance, that you will consider the true Interest of the Proprietary Family and the People over whom you preside as inseparable, and that you will distinguish yourself for that Love of Justice, Freedom and Humanity, which so strongly marked the Character of our late worthy Governor.

Pleased, Sir, with the Prospect of that Happiness, which we sincerely wish may result from your Administration to the Public in general, we cannot doubt that the Corporation of this City will be secure in the Enjoyment of the particular Rights and Privileges granted them by Charter.

HIS HONOUR'S ANSWER.

GENTLEMEN,
YOUR Congratulation upon my safe Arrival, and Accession to the Government of this Province, and the Pleasure you express upon the Trust of Government being committed to one of the Proprietary Family, cannot but be highly grateful to me.

The utmost of my Knowledge and Ability shall be cheerfully employed to reconcile the Interest of the Proprietary Family with that of the People over whom I preside, and I flatter myself with a Hope, that they may not be found altogether incompatible.

I must leave the Conduct of my Administration in future, to prove how much I may be influenced by that Love of Justice, Freedom and Humanity, which marked the Character of my Predecessor.

The Rights and Privileges granted by Charter to the Corporation of this City, shall receive every Security and Protection which they can reasonably expect, or which I may have the Power to bestow.

To the Honourable RICHARD PENN, Esq; Lieutenant Governor, and Commander in Chief, of the Province of Pennsylvania, and Counties of New-Castle, Kent and Suffex, upon Delaware, The ADDRESS of the Trustees of the College, Academy and Charitable School of Philadelphia, &c.

May it please your HONOUR,

We beg Leave to offer you our most sincere Congratulations upon your Appointment to the Government of this Province, and safe Arrival amongst us.

The Charge with which we are intrusted, is of the most important Kind.
